Linda and Sarah Bardall at CCO training

I want to invite you to participate in two opportunities. The first is to help me shape the sermons (or at least several of them) for likely many months to come. We all have questions. We have questions about our faith, questions about Scripture, questions about how we respond to the challenges we face in our nation and world today. These questions impact how we live out our faith on a daily basis. You have likely noticed over the last six years that I tend to steer pretty clear of the more challenging, sometimes controversial, and potentially dividing “issues” with which many of us wrestle. This was intentional and with good reason. However, I have been sensing lately that the Lord is asking me to help this congregation navigate through the muddy waters of life and faith, particularly where the “rubber meets the road” in some of the more difficult matters.

And so I am committing at least half of the Sunday morning sermons over the next several months to respond to the questions and issues that you ask me to address. I will first and foremost seek to provide you with a Biblical perspective. I will likely share some of the ways I have and continue to wrestle with the respective issue. I will consider some ways that we may be called to

Sarah Bardall Begins CCO XD Ministry

It's an honor to finally introduce myself as a new addition to the CCO XD team at First Presbyterian Church and Ashland University. If we haven't got the chance to meet, my name is Sarah Bardall. I am a Malone University graduate of 2015, and that's where I experienced the impact of the Coalition for Christian Outreach (CCO) through my campus minister, Linda. For four years, Linda and I met almost every week; she became a faithful presence in my life - one of truth, grace, and wisdom. She was present - during the ordinary and the ugly - and she pointed me toward a good and faithful God who wanted and demanded every part of me, not just the neat and tidy parts. It was her Christ-likeness, choosing to stay in the middle of my messy faith, that positioned my heart to experience the love of God and be resurrected.

I can't tell my story without telling of Linda and the CCO. Each time I tell it, God's story comes more clearly into view. He brought me from death to life in college, and now He continues to call me to the beautifully painful process of bringing my darkness into the Light. I have to smile as I consider how God has led me to a ministry and a church that has the same heart as mine. I've stepped into a CCO XD ministry whose vision is to walk alongside students, wherever they are, and simply be present. I've walked into this church that doesn't want to run from messy faith - doesn't want to pretend - but wants to foster a *warm community full of real people. We commit to authentic community, welcoming brokenness, because we've been saved by a Savior who isn't afraid of broken things.

Looking forward to the 2017-2018 Ashland CCO XD ministry, Jake and I are committed to welcoming students into fellowship with us, the Father, and the Church. We want to make Christ present by being present in students' lives, whether we are playing basketball together at the Rec. Center or crying beside them after a small group meeting. We want to be a voice of truth that points them to a loving Father who desires fellowship with them. We want to invite them into a warm community that exists, not only on campus, but through the involvement of our First Presbyterian Church community.

Action Step

As we cultivate authentic community within our church building, let's reach out to touch a generation of college students longing for acceptance and belonging. I'm inviting you to welcome students into your homes and lives (it's even okay if they're a little messy) and watch what God does.

Consider this: As we meet students this fall, we'd love to invite them into a home for dinner and fellowship. Would you be interested in hosting a few students and Sarah for a weeknight dinner?

Compassion International Update on India

Tragically, benefits to more than 147,000 children, young adults, and babies and their caregivers in India ended on March 15, after nearly half a century of aid. More than 11,000 nongovernmental organizations working in India have lost permission since 2014 to accept foreign money. The Indian government has determined that Compassion International, with the others, funds activities that are labeled “detrimental to the national interest.” While having broken no laws, Compassion was denied permission to continue providing funds for necessary food, literacy courses, health services, vocational training, access to safe water, and child care education. 582 church partners are impacted by this action, as well as 130,000 sponsors who offered monthly support, prayers and letters to children in India. Of note, more than 30% of the world’s poorest children live in India.

From President and CEO Santiago “Jimmy” Mellado—“We refuse to be overcome with grief. So we are worshipping in the face of adversity. We know we serve a God bigger than this obstacle. The Church’s work will continue—even if it looks different than we had hoped. And maybe, just maybe, we’ll be able to return one day to serve the precious children of India who are living in unimaginable poverty. Until then, we pray. And we praise.”

From Summer 2017 issue of Compassion periodical, entitled “Honoring God’s Work in India.”

Several members of FPC currently sponsor children through Compassion International and FPC has held several Compassion Sunday highlighting this ministry. For more information, visit CompassionSunday.com

The Compassion Experience
August 25-27
Bill Harris Auto Center,
2245 Claremont Avenue

The Compassion Experience is a groundbreaking and interactive way of educating people about the plight of the 1 billion poor around the world. Created by Compassion International to bring extreme global poverty to America, the Compassion Experience invites visitors on a sensory journey through the lives of impoverished children that have completed Compassion’s sponsorship program.

This event is another way to discover the work of Compassion International. Experience other cultures, the realities of global poverty, and how you can change the life of a child living half a world away.

CROP Walk
October 1, 2017
2:00pm

Representatives from Ashland area congregations will come together to walk and pledge support for this annual effort of Church World Service to alleviate hunger in Ashland and the world. An $8,000 goal for this year’s event has been announced by Coordinator Jim Pifer of Christ United Methodist Church, with a reminder that 25% of the funds received remains in the greater Ashland community.

Won’t you consider walking with us, or pledging support through one of the walkers? Lana Potter has pledge envelopes, “first come, first served.” Watch for bulletin inserts to learn of ways in which CROP funds have benefitted individuals and communities around the world. Donations also may be made through our FPC team page at crophungerwalk.org.

An Invitation

respond in practical ways in our day to day lives. So what questions keep you up at night? What issues are you most struggling to understand? How are you called to respond as a Christian? What topics do you most wonder if and how Scripture addresses? I invite you to email these to me at pastormike@ashlandfpc.org or office@ashlandfpc.org. You may also call and leave your question/issue/topic with Linda or simply send me a note. I promise you that I am not an expert on all matters, and that I likely have and wrestle with many of the same questions as you. Perhaps we can unite and seek the Lord together in these matters.

I also want to invite you to attend a Sunday School class I will be teaching at 9:00 am beginning September 10th. We will be meeting in the prayer chapel and the topic is Spiritual Warfare. Have you wondered about demons, Satan, and battle that Scripture proclaims is being fought? How does it impact our lives? What role do we play in the battle? Is any of it for real? If so, should I be afraid of Satan's attacks? What role does shame play in spiritual warfare? We will tackle these and many other questions, considering the Biblical view of the spiritual realm and the role we play within it. Paul tells us that our "struggle is not against enemies of blood and flesh, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the cosmic powers of this present darkness, against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly places." What does that mean? What implications does it have on our lives? How does it all fit together? Join me September 10th as we begin to wrestle with these questions and faithfully claim the victory over the enemy that we already have in Jesus Christ.

Blessings of Love & Grace,
Pastor Mike

Prayer Shawls

September 21
1:30pm

The Prayer Shawl Ministry will resume on Thursday, September 21, in the lounge. Knitters and crocheters are welcome!

This team of FPC women create prayer shawls for those going through a challenging time to let them know that their church family is thinking of them and praying for them. This group gave away 13 prayer shawls last year.

If you would like to suggest someone who would benefit from a shawl and a note, or if you want to know more about this ministry, please contact the church office.

Ashland Community Fellowship Health Walks

These walks are for anyone wanting to improve their mental or physical well-being and meet new people. The group meets at 8:00am each Saturday at different trails throughout the county. Walks are approximately 1 hour long. Check visitashlandohio.com/calendar, call 419-651-7492, to find out where the next one will meet.

Loud Sunday

When a month has a fifth Sunday, FPC collects a special offering to benefit a local charity or project. This offering is "loud" because we throw our change into coffee cans and make a joyful noise to the Lord.

October 29, our Loud Offering will benefit Domestic Violence Safe Haven. Thank you for saving your spare change.

Property Ministry

The biggest pressing project for our church is a major project to repair the third street side of the building. Finding qualified and willing contractors to even bid the project has been a challenge. Property is still hopeful that we can have contractors and pricing to present before the spring building season starts. The one in hand estimate is near $50,000 which far exceeds the previous pricing we were given and could not be funded with our property budget. Trustees and Finance will have to decide how to proceed with congregation support.

On a happier note the dishwasher motor was restored and all appears to be working. There was a problem with water temperature but that finally was resolved.

Some staff offices have changed and some furniture was replaced and some moved out. Our angel painter helped tidy up the area and it looks great.

The locks in the office area will change in the near future. Access will be by keypad after hours so be aware. New magnetic locks will insure the building is secure.

For me the most frustrating project has been our projectors. The good news is one projector has been refurbished under warrantee and the second one is in process to be done and returned soon. It was frustrating to have any problems for such new equipment, but they are nearly 3 years old and have become an integral part of the service.

Organ repairs and possibilities are on the to do list.

The lighting in the historic hallway has been updated with an eye toward improving that area.

No progress on the middle school property. The school board and county have quit talking and we are out of the loop.

As always if you see something that needs attention tell us so we can address it.

Identity Integrity and the Awakening of the True Self A Healing Care Seminar

We live in a world that insists that performance and people pleasing are the only way to have our deepest longings met. This leads to exhaustion and insecurity. Unfortunately, many Christians are trapped on this treadmill, unaware that Christ has given them through inheritance what they could never earn through performance. In this seminar, you will experience the power that comes from living out of your true identity.

Messiness

Do you have a drawer or closet filled with junk? I know I do. Actually, a couple. A couple Sundays ago our Pastor shared that messiness is one of the main elements that fuels a warm community. What does messiness in a relationship mean? To be honest and open with each other about your heart and your situation. Recent research published in the book Growing Young, says that young people, ages 15-29, are rooting into—rather than leaving—churches that work to engage them in this authentic way.

Students and young people are watching... and longing to see your junk drawer. When they see the messiness of your “junk drawer,” they feel welcomed because they can relate to messiness. Your realness invites them into a community where it is safe for them to open up and reveal their untidy drawer, too.

Will you come alongside a student this fall and walk with them in the messiness of life?

As you read, 4.4 million students are headed off to college across the Mid-Atlantic Region of our country. The campus ministers scattered across this area are only reaching about 2% of them. In order to reach more, we need your help in one or more of these three ways:

PRAY. Pray for students, schools, professors and campus ministers by name and at specific locations. If you know them by name you most likely know part of their story which will help in praying specifically.

GO. Join Sarah and I for Alpha on Tuesday nights at 8:30 in the AU

THE CHAMPION'S CORNER

Every Corner. Every Student. Every Area of Life.

Auditorium and help create a warm, intergenerational community there.

SIT. Sit with a young person between the age of 15-29 when they are in church. I call this “knee to knee fellowship.” It communicates to them, “I desire to be with you and know you.” As a result, people will experience a warm and welcoming community.

The beautiful thing that begins to happen when we get out of our comfort zones and fuel a warm community is that it begins to spread out through the doors and into our community. It will start with the local church and it will start with you!

Will you PRAY, GO, SIT and be in the corner for young people?
